“ I worked for the Engle Family for 28 years. The family always showed their Christian spirit in many ways. As a photographer I needed transportation and they arranged for me to get a car and pay it back overtime out of my paycheck. My first job with them was a photo page of pictures of my own choosing for $40 a week. My deepest condolences to the family.

“ I'm sorry we lost contact with your mother over the years. She brought a lot of joy and laughter to my father, so for that I am always grateful. My deepest condolences, Lyn Ringquist Pontz and husband Bob “ Pauline was a friend of my father, Axel Ringquist. She frequently stopped by when she came for a Florida visit. One thing that she did, that really impressed my young children, was that just by digging her fingernails into an apple she could twist it in half. They still remember that. God speed Pauline.

“ I remember being interviewed for a job at Engle Printing by Pauline Engle. I was just a young 17 year old girl just graduating from Lancaster County Vo-Tech's commercial printing class. Mrs. Engle was impressed with the list of things I said I could do. (An idea that our teacher said we should list.) She helped me by her gracious way to feel at ease during that interview. She offered me a job and I worked for her company the next 40 years. The only word of rebuke I ever heard from her was a note handwritten on my paycheck that said, "Your day starts at 8. Please don't be late!" I always appreciated working for the company that she started because I could be a part of a paper that was wholesome, family orientated, and was not afraid to show that they were Christian. My condolences to the family.
