“ I just saw Ralph's Obituary in the paper and am so sorry I missed his funeral services. I am a photographer in Elizabethtown and Ralph knocked on my door one day last September and asked if I could take a photo of him because he needed a nice picture for a WWII event he was going to attend (and I believe he said he was going to be going to California!). I normally schedule appointments in advance, but he was such a dear man I decided to just grab my camera and we went outside and snapped a few photos. We talked for quite awhile and then I thanked him for his service to our country and told him there would be no charge, and that I would mail him the prints he needed. He wasn't very comfortable with that but I insisted, and thought I had him convinced. Well was I wrong. After he received the prints he called me to thank me and said he really wanted to pay me something, so I finally gave in. He mailed me a check and a hand written note that I still have, he also left me a voice message to thank me again and I also still have that on my phone. I feel honored that the photo used here is the one we took that day. Ralph was only in my life briefly, but I could see what an honorable, hard-working, loving man he was and I know he will be missed greatly by all who knew him. xo

“ I am a photographer in Elizabethtown and I met Ralph last September when he knocked on my door to ask if I could take a photo for him, because he needed one to send to a WWII event he was going to (I believe in California!). I grabbed my camera and we went outside, snapped a few photos and chatted for awhile. He was so dear, and I enjoyed our conversation. I told him I would mail him the prints he needed and he wanted to know what he owed, I told him it was on the house and thanked him for his service to our country. He didn't really like that idea, but I convinced him..... or at least I thought. After he received the prints he called and left me a message and pleaded for me to call him back to let him know what he owed... I still have the message on my phone. I, of course, call him back and he, of course, convinced me to let him pay. I also still have the hand-written note he mailed with his check. I was so sad to see his obituary in the paper, but am so honored the photo used here was the one we took that day. I only knew Ralph for a brief time, but he definitely touched my heart and I know he will be missed greatly by everyone who knew him. xo

“ I am so sorry to hear of the passing of Ralph.. He was a delightful, smart and sometimes sassy old coot that I would see at breakfast in the mornings at the old Clearview Diner, where my former Mother-in-Law, Cas Lawrence worked. It usually would be Ralph, Kenny, Wally Broucht, just to name a few at the counter for breakfast. Oh what conversations we would get into, from hunting to fishing to politics...Ralph was such a delight to spend time with at the diner along with these other guys and of course, having them harass myself and Cas was also a special treat because we both knew exactly how to handle ourselves with these guys. Over the years you learn how to manage or you will sink...Smiling here... All I can say is I always went to work feeling happy and it made my day to start out with these folks. Now today the last one has gone to Heaven to join the others and I am a bit jealous as they will continue the party without me. But I will meet them again someday and we will have a wonderful reunion on the streets of gold... R.I.P. Ralph Ebersole...You will be missed by me and so many...! Thanks for the laughs over the years...!
