After Sarah's parents died when she was quite young. my Nana and several neighbors befriended Sarah. Sarah never forgot the help they provided. After she grew up, married Dick, and had her children, she often brought you to visit Nana Billow. As I grew up, I also learned to know Sarah and her children. Sarah was a devoted friend and a blessing to so many in the community. I felt honored to be one of them. She never forgot to send me a birthday card and one for our anniversary. Sarah was so proud of you, her family, and grieved deeply following Bill's death, as I believe all of you did. Blessings to each of you during this difficult time after having lost both of your parents during this calendar year.
