“ Every life begins and eventually ends. What falls within those beginnings and endings can fluidly exist an immense continuum of emotions.
There are Beginnings to Life filled with joy, happiness and innately overwhelming love.
Similarly, there may be Beginnings filled with pain, sadness and incomparable staggering loss.
There are Endings to Life filled with grief, heartache and gut wrenching sorrow.
Likewise, those same Endings are simultaneously filled with relief, rest and finding ultimate peace.

The universe seeks equilibrium and balance in all things. Light penetrates darkness. Heat eliminates cold. Vacuum displaces atmosphere. Matter restrains fluid.

The balance of Emotions is no different.

The Yin and Yang of human existence exemplifies the dichotomy of Life's Beginnings and Endings.

Unbridled happiness, overwhelming sadness; soul piercing grief, immeasurable joy.

What survives the tumult of Mortal Life is the essence of Being and what makes us uniquely human;....what survives is the Love, Compassion, Caring and Memories of the friends, loved ones, family and offspring that keep us alive in their hearts and minds when we are gone.

I love you sister. You will forever be in my heart and mind. I know you have found peace with mom and dad.

“ I am a friend of Tammy's from high school. We had been in touch a few times recently and we planned on seeing each other more often. Tammy was a friend who always wanted to take care of us and make sure we were okay. I am so sorry that I won't get to see Tammy now that we are retired. Sending prayers to all her family.

“ I am so sorry to hear of your family's loss. I used to volunteer at Tel Hai doing nails. I was awe of the beautiful team and program she had on her unit. Tammy always greeted me with such joy when I would come in. She had a way of making everyone feel at home on her unit.

Thinking of your family and wishing you all peace.
