“ My mother raised four boys during a never-ending battle to keep us and herself safe. She was the strongest person I knew that continually put herself in between her children and danger. She somehow managed to find time to teach us right from wrong as well as instilling the importance in us to be honest and have integrity.

My mother finally found some peace after her children were grown and she moved back home to Lancaster Pennsylvania where she belonged, I too found peace in Pennsylvania and with the help of my uncle Sonny and Aunt Debbie I also found God.

I thank God for keeping my mother safe until she can be with him.

My mother was the only pure light in our lives as we grew through childhood. I thank God for giving her the strength to survive. I will also mention that my aunt Elizabeth loved us and helped my mother keep us safe on many occasions. I love you Aunt Lizabeth.

I know there are a lot of family members (mostly from Alabama) that know the truth about my mother and her children being mistreated for most of her marriage, Many whispered in our ears how horrible they thought it was, yet no one stepped forward.

I know how awful my words sound, imagine how I feel reliving it so you can know the truth.

This is supposed to be a celebration of my mother's life, and it is because she is finally at peace, let us thank God for taking my Mother home. I love you mother.
